SIXTH INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION
OF THE
Mechanics' Institute,
SAN FRANCISCO.

THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE MECHANics' Institute hereby give notice that the Sixth Industrial Exhibition of this Association will be held some time in August next, in a building to be erected for the purpose in Union Square in this city. Every preparation will be made to accommodate exhibitors and visitors with a view to make the Exhibition profitable, instructive and pleasant to all parties.

During the three years which have intervened since the holding of the last Exhibition in this city the manufacturing, mechanical, scientific and useful and ornamental arts have made unprecedented progress on this coast, and it is believed that the proposed Exhibition will exceed any other in value that has ever been held on the shores of the Pacific.

The plan of building to be erected, which has been adopted by the Board of Directors, it is believed will prove to be the best adapted, both for display and convenience of the public, of any building ever erected in the State. The building will be perfectly water-tight, being covered with a shingle roof, so that no damage from the elements can be anticipated.

All parties who are interested in any of the branches of Manufactures, Mechanics, or the Arts and Sciences are invited to exhibit in the proposed Exhibition, and to share in the publicity and consequent profit which always attends such enterprises. Suitable premiums will be offered, and the specific date of opening the Exhibition will be published at some future time.

By order of the Board of Directors.

Mail Route to Yaquina.

From the Corvallis Gazette.

The following official correspondence, relative to the establishment of this route, will be read with interest, as clearly showing that Senator Corbett is fully alive to the wants and desires of a portion of his constituents, whose prayers have heretofore been almost wholly disregarded. He will receive as he deserves, the thanks of the people of Benton county and especially the large settlement on the Yaquina, whose mail facilities have been entirely dependent upon private enterprise. The letters were placed in our hands by Judge Chenoweth.

U. S. SENATE CHAMBER,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Apr. 18, 1868.

Hon. F. A. CHENOWETH—Dear Sir. I called upon the Postoffice Department this morning, to urge the letting of a mail contract from Corvallis to Newport. They have consented to the letting of the same, provided it does not exceed $4,500 per annum for service, three times a week in summer, and once a week in the winter; this is understood to be only a temporary arrangement, to give you immediate mail facilities, until the regular mail letting, which will probably be advertised next February, to commence one year from this 1st of July, therefore this temporary arrangement will only continue one year from this coming July. Trusting this will give your people satisfaction until more permanent arrangements can be made, I remain, very truly, your friend.
H. W. CORBETT.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
CONTRACT OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, Apr. 28, 1868.

Hon. H. W. CORBETT, U. S. Senate—Sir: I have the honor to inform you that, agreeable to your request, the postmaster at Corvallis, Oregon, has been instructed to engage temporary service on the route from his office to Newport, from July 1st, 1868, to June 30, 1869; provided the expense shall not exceed fifteen hundred dollars ($1,500) per annum for three trips per week in summer and one in winter.

Very respectfully, &c.,
GEO. W. McLELLAN,
Second Ass't. P. M. G.

Not a Partisan Question.

[From the S. F. Bulletin.]

It is a fact extremely creditable to the Union press of California that, so far as it has yet spoken at all on the subject, it is unanimous in condemning any attempt to bring external pressure to bear on the President's judges. By all the question is treated as one above party, and as demanding an impartial verdict upon the law and evidence. The spirit of Senator Henderson's reply is applauded as just and manly. The Times says of the President's case:

In the name of all the people of the United States this case has been brought before the highest Court in the land; not that he might be convicted; not that he might be acquitted, but that he might be tried; that the issues between him and us might be fairly determined; that the charges made by us and denied by him might be judicially investigated, and a verdict given in accordance with the law and the facts. And shall we now turn upon the judges and demand of them a verdict? Shall we now attempt to bribe them into declaring against their consciences what we believe? If this is right then we have been wasting time. Then the hearing of evidence was superfluous, the arguments of Managers and Counsel a waste of words, the deliberations of the High Court an empty mockery, and the administration of oaths a worse than useless formality.

The Alta adds:

It is to be hoped that no Senator will succumb to the public clamor in this matter. To do so would not only ruin his own character, but, in the event of conviction establish the very doubtful and dangerous precedent that Presidents may be removed from office whenever there is a majority in Congress against them. We want the judgment of the Senate, and not the public clamor speaking through its agency.

The Oakland News remarks:

If there are any irascible and passionate Republicans, who are disposed to abuse the Senate because of the acquittal of the President (in case he is acquitted,) we would respectfully request them to restrain their wrath. Let them remember that the questions the Senate was called upon to decide are legal questions, and that the Senate was sitting as a Court. The members were bound to act judicially, and, no matter how much they have despised Andrew Johnson and reprobated his course upon general principles, they were sworn as a judicial tribunal, to give him a fair and impartial trial upon the charges brought against him. Let them remember that it was the duty of the Senate to try him according to law, and upon the evidence, and that no matter how much they may have been opposed to his policy, they might have felt constrained to acquit him upon purely legal and technical grounds.

The Sacramento Bee says in its issue of May 13th.

The verdict is not a question of politics, but of fact. Did the President do the thing charged; and, if so, is that crime sufficient, according to precedent and custom, to deprive him of office? The jurors are sworn to be just—to find a verdict in accordance with the testimony—and we doubt not that they will keep their oaths and pronounce the fact as they see it.

We have no doubt that these extracts fairly reflect the average judgment of the Republicans of California, and that they will be found to accord with the opinions expressed

A Great and Important Step

Adopted citizens of the United States can not fail to observe the tone and spirit of the concluding resolutions of the Union Republican National Platform They cannot fail to see in these declarations, supported as they have been by the efforts of the party to establish them as living principles, direct proof of the comprehensive nature, and liberal character of the aims and objects of the great national party of our country. That party is in truth at war with every species of despotism, and it therefore has no sympathy with the old feudal law which denied the right of expatriation and held that the citizen could not transfer his allegiance from one country to another. In touching upon this subject heretofore we have shown how the Union party has taken measures to enforce this doctrine. We are now securing the triumph of a principle which might be called American in its character, and a great triumph it is over the old dogmas of Europe that he who has once been a subject must always be so. The declarations of our national platform are explicit on this subject and come fully up to the requirements of the times. We point to the position which our Representatives in Congress have taken on this subject, and to the declarations of our National Convention, as a great and important step in the advancing march of personal freedom.

Hurrah for Oregon from Shame.

There can be no more doubt of the election of GRANT and COLFAX than there is of the election of the day appointed for the Presidential election. It will be the campaign of 1864 over again, except that the Southern States will join with the northern portion of the Union to swell the great vote which will call our standard bearers to the head of the nation. The Copperheads are splitting their throats in shouting for Pendleton. Suppose they nominate him or anyone else who truly represents their principles. The campaign would scarcely wear the appearance of a contest. Do the Union party of Oregon desire a share of the honor of the sure national triumph in November? Do those who have made for this State such a glorious record in favor of the Union since 1862 desire to see their vote classed in November with rebel-ridden Kentucky and Maryland, the only States which will go for the secession, rebel-loving Democracy? We know there is not one Union man who would not feel deeply chagrined at such a result. To the work then now, that the triumph in November may be surer to win. Let us not be defrauded by apathy of our share in the great victory. Let us carry the State for LOGAN, and the work of carrying it for GRANT will be already done.

The existence of a rebel secret order known as the "Kuklux Klan" is a fact about which there can be no doubt. The Richmond Enquirer says "It is now very evident that this is not a mean ingless, merry-making organization, but that underneath its sash and bells it hides a purpose as resolute as pebble and heroic as that which Brutus concealed, beneath a well dissembled mark.' These are unmistakable indications that this order, or some other in the interest of the 'Democratic' party, is operating in Oregon. It is a well-known fact that that party had a secret organization in this State in 1864, and there can be no doubt that it has one now. The existence of the order has been boldly advertised by the principal "Democratic" papers of the North and the party has been called on to spread the organization. One of the objects of the Kuklukers in the South is murder. Whether the same tactics will be introduced by the Kuklukers in the North we shall probably know before long.

The mischievous assertion the New York Times that General Grant declared that "impeachment was necessary to the peace of the country and ought to be accomplished," was soon after authoritatively denied. The impropriety of such an expression of opinion, by General Grant, pending the trial, will occur to every one. Therefore we are not surprised to hear that "whatever may be his private opinion on this subject, and doubtless he entertains opinions as clearly as any one, the country may rest assured that he has not made any such announcement nor will he make any announcement of any kind on this subject, so long as the present official relations which he bears to the President exist. The gross impropriety of such an announcement, especially as an example for the army, ought to be as apparent to the country as it is to General Grant."

Everything by Turns

Chadwick says in a letter to the Roseburg Ensign of May 23d, that J. S. Smith in his speech at Roseburg stated that he (Smith) was a member of the Oregon Central Railroad Company, meaning the road on the east side of the river.

In his speech recently at McMinnville Smith said he was not a member of any Railroad Company, and had no stock or interest in the road on either side. This is another illustration of his habitual untruthfulness. It is becoming reheatable how it has happened that this man obtains in many quarters credit for veracity.

Fight the Battle Through

Brethren of the Union party! we have been engaged in a momentous and trying struggle since the beginning of 1861. Shall we fight the battle through to the end? But one more great effort is necessary. Shall we not make it? The result of all past contests depend upon this. Work and vote for LOGAN, and prepare to work and vote for GRANT!

When the county of Multnomah passed from Democratic hands into those of the Union party county orders were at a discount of nine per cent. During the whole period since then they have been almost or quite at par. This shows the difference between Democratic and Republican financial management.

THE RATIFICATION MEETING

Torchlight Procession. Music Banners and Transparancies.

The Union Men of Portland out for Grant and Colfax.

Logan Immensely Ahead in Multnomah!

The meeting held here last night to ratify the National Union Republican nominations, by far exceeded in numbers any political gathering ever assembled in Portland. The torchlight procession headed by the brass band drew an immense crowd to the Plaza. The evening being unfavorable for outdoor speaking, the Court House was quickly filled by the multitude to hear the speakers who had been announced for the occasion. The hall was crowded to overflowing, at least fifteen hundred persons being within it. Not half the crowd could obtain admittance for want of room. The multitude outside collected around the great bonfires in the street and remained for an hour or more while rockets were sent up and guns fired amid every demonstration of enthusiasm. The great audience inside the building was in the meantime addressed by Governor Gibbs Hon P C Sullivan, Hon Wilson Bowlby, and W D Haro, Esq. The entire demonstration passed off in the most enthusiastic manner. The numbers present were an indication of the strength and earnestness of the Union party in Multnomah. We tell our friends elsewhere that we are all right here. Portland will give an astonishing majority for Logan. We take pleasure in chronicling the fact that the largest political meeting ever held in this city was for the purpose of ratifying the nominations of GRANT and COLFAX. Friends of the Union cause! let us advance with confidence to victory!

Democratic Financial Policy

The favorite organ of the Oregon Dem ocracy the La Crosse Democrat, devotes what space it has to spare from more blasphemous and obscene writing, to discussing the finances from a "Democratic" point of view. In a late number it sums this matter up in the following terse style:

> This financial problem is too big a thing to be handled, except in one way. There is only one method of solving it. This will be slobbered it will be sponged out. The people must be relieved—they must be saved—and it can be done in no other way.

Taking up those few Democrats who defend the idea of paying the bonds, It remarks:

> Governor Seymour pleads hard for the bond holders, and has much to say about "innocent holders." There are none, and if there were let them make haste and save themselves while they may. If they do not, it is their own fault.

And in any event, which is worst, that a few innocent parties, if any such there were, should suffer loss, or that a whole people should lang, rish and die under a load of debt and taxation greater than it can bear?

> "Self preservation is the first law of nature."

In answer to the argument that repudiation would ruin the working classes and rob them of their hard earned savings, it says:

> All the bonds deposited in the currency bureau at Washington, as security for notes issued to the national banks, are held by capitalits. All the bonds belonging to insurance companies are held by capitalists.
> Those held by savings banks are of little account, for the people are becoming so poor under the bond system that they have nothing to deposit and have long since drawn out most that they had deposited.

If this paper does not represent Democratic principles, why has it a circulation six times greater than any other Democratic paper in the country?

South Carolina Democracy Give it Up

The recent "Democratic" Convention of South Carolina took advanced ground on the negro question, resolving that—

> Under the action of the State of South Carolina, heretofore taken, we recognize the colored population of the State as an integral element of the body politic, and as such, in person and property, entitled to a full and equal protection under the State Constitution and laws, and that, as citizens of the State of South Carolina, we declare our willingness, when we have the power, to grant them, under proper qualifications as to property and intelligence, the right of suffrage.

This is giving up the whole ground on which the 'Democratic" party base the unfitness of the negro to exercise the right of suffrage. It is repudiating the idea that color disqualifies a man for participating in the Government. What will the Copperhead organs of Oregon have to say to the action of their party brethren in South Carolina? Perhaps tumble bug Ben, or some other champion of the "wool and shin bone" theory will read the South Carolina Democrats out of the party.

In every county in the State where the Democrats have had control the taxes have been greatly increased and bankruptcy threatened. It is so in Umatilla Union and Lane. In the latter county, under Republican rule the levy of taxes was ten mills on the dollar, and with this a county debt of $6 000, bequeathed by the Democracy, was paid off, expenses met, and considerable improvements made. For the past two years the Democrats have again had control of the county and the levy of taxes is fourteen and a half mills on the dollar, county orders have depreciated and the county is again heavily in debt. This is about a fair sample of the operations of the financial Democracy.

The Washington (D C) Chronicle publishes our Union State platform, and remarks that 'it contains many propositions forcibly stated,' and that 'the resolutions are thoughtfully drawn and deserve careful attention." We know not whether the framers of the national platform adopted at Chicago last week were indebted to the Oregon platform, but all will observe the striking similarity between the two documents.

The New York World calls Gen Gordon, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Georgia "one of the staunchest Union men before the war, one of the most gallant Southern Generals during the war, and one of the first and frankest of Southern men to accept the results of the war" and intends all these statements to be regarded as complimentary.

The Louisville Courier says that the "Scum of the Border," a Democratic organ of the La Crosse Democrat school, has left Louisville and gone to Council Bluffs, Iowa, where it will be issued under the title of the "Border Ruffian."

The Eugene State Journal has been enlarged and greatly improved. It is conducted with ability and in general excellence is surpassed by none of our Oregon exchanges.

DELINQUENT CITY TAXES.—We learn that the Marshal has commenced levying on real estate for the purpose of making delinquent city taxes.

Satrap—a military officer whose political views are not Democratic.

INDIAN MATTERS. The Multnomah, of Saturday, has the following paragraph:

> Mr. Neil M Farland, a worthy citizen of our city returned on Sunday last from a trip to the different military camps in South-eastern Oregon and Nevada. He says the Indians in all that section of country are hostile, and that the troops are expecting warm work and plenty of it this summer. Mr. M Farland saw a fight between a party of Indians secreted in the rocks and a detachment of U S cavalry in which there were five soldiers killed and a number wounded. The officer in command of the troops was obliged to withdraw from the fight and return to camp leaving the Indians in possession of the battle field. On his return trip and when in sight of Camp Harney, in fording Silvis river one of his escort was swept from his horse and drowned. After many narrow escapes and hardships he returned home to his family after an absence of eighty days, considerably sun-burnt but in splendid health.

GREAT RATIFICATION MEETING.—The weather last ... was extremely unfavorable for the torchlight ... a pouring wind blowing in which it was quite ... to keep the torches burning. Nevertheless the ... was the largest ever turned out, when the hundred ... Ironsides, where the fire was kept burning ... torches were to be distributed. These were melted ... over forty tomparaffine and about four hundred torches ... distributed. With these ablaze, the procession, headed by the Mechanics' Brass Band, marched up Second street a few minutes past eight, and thence through the principal streets. In front of this office the procession halted and gave three rousing cheers for the OREGONIAN newspaper. At this time the crowd along the sidewalks and in the street was probably the largest ever seen together in the city. All along Washington from First to Front, down Front to Stark and up to and Alder, the streets and sidewalks seemed an immense jam of human beings among whom were large numbers of ladies. All the back and side windows were filled with ladies and gentlemen. As the procession moved up fire works were ...d in succession from various parts of the column. The scene was strikingly imposing and animated. Every transparency had an appropriate motto, and we will never remember the following: "Grant, Colfax and Victory." The most Presidency in Grant of "Who skinned Smith?" "Dave Logan!" "Pic Bayard Blue." "Dem crazy lecture." "Dipper killed it!" "The Irish are death on Stakes!" "Grant is out!" "Upton will be elected—let the Democracy tremble!" Lighting may strike Jim Smith, but he will never go to Congress." "Dimon ye hear this for ...?" "Good Jake—Sorden for Clerk. Zerbe for Sheriff." Oh, Pshaw!" A double pictorial transparency illustrated the cereal of Andy Johnson and Gen. Smith's history. EARTHQUAKE AT SEA.—Captain Carno, of the brig ..., tells us that on the trip up from San Francisco, ... experienced two shocks of an earthquake, each severe enough to startle all on board. He and his mate were ... in the cabin when the first shock was felt, and ... that both ran out on deck with the impression that the vessel had struck and run over a reef. Upon looking down, however, no signs of shallow water or of any kind ... near the surface, could be discovered, and as the sea all ... was agitated as if stricken by some convulsion, ... concluded the shock was that of an earthquake. ... second shock occurred in about a half a minutes and ... they were still speculating about the first. The ... trembled up from below, frightened and under the ... that the vessel had struck a rock. After the first ... had subsided, to make sure that the vessel was all ... the pumps were tried, but no water was found in ... wells. This occurred on the 18th, in latitude 11° ... and longitude 129° 35' west. The vessel was making ... three about eight knots, her speed was not at all ... checked, a fact which would destroy the presumption ... she had struck any sunken obstruction.

Taking into consideration the probable ... of ... used for future ... of repairs, the owners thought it the better plan to put down the Macadam pave... at once. The sand and ... are already on the ground, and the work will proceed immediately. Mr C M Carter owns on the north side, and Messrs Vaughn and Smith own on the south side.

GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC.—A post or encampment of the Grand ... y of the Republic was organized in this city last Sa... y evening, by J. H. Smith, mustering ... and ... ity of the Department of California. Col. J. M. ... is the Commander. We understand that other ... encampments will be organized, perhaps in a short time. We prefer to see, in any sense, a political one, but it is ... ly to be ... with a purely legal assistance and to preserve those fraternal feelings which grew up among soldiers during long ... service in the great Union armies of the late rebellion. The encampment here promises to be a large one.

CONVENTION OF THE FOURTH.—We publish this morning a call, signed by a large number of citizens for a ... ting to take measures for a proper observance of the 4th of July. The persons whose names are appended ... a ... ility, and seemed anxious that our Stars and ... should not go by unobserved. A much greater list might have been procured, had it been thought necessary. It is to be hoped that the meeting which is to be held this evening, at the Council chamber, will be fully attended, and that the matter of the celebration will be ... upon a firm basis.

CIRCUIT COURT—DEADY, J.—The following were the ... proceedings in this court yesterday:

... Milbank et al vs. J. P. O. Lowndale et al; In ... ity; motion by solicitor for complainants to dismiss the cause without prejudice, argued and submitted.

... R. Lamb et al vs. L. M. Starr et al; in equity; ... that the time for taking depositions be extended ... the 8th day of June next, and that the cause be set down for hearing on the 8th day of the same month. ... Adjourned until 10 A. M. to-day.

...NE'S MEETINGS.—The Portland Longshoremen's Protective Union had a full meeting last evening ... the Council Chamber, thirty members being present, ... by all of whom paid initiation fees. Three new members were initiated, and quite a number of others signed the roll. A code of by-laws was read and adopted. It was resolved that the Union would hold a special meeting at the Italian Guards' Armory next Thursday evening, to which seven... there will be a torchlight procession ... where are requested to attend.

He says ... is the best troupe that has been here in ten years. ... boy of ten years is a prodigy. He and the girl ... are worth the price of admission." We have ... favorable notice of this troupe, by the ... along their route from California.

...E SALE.—At ten o'clock this morning, Sheriff ... will expose for sale, certain real estate in this city ... belonging to delinquent tax payers—sale to be at the Court House door, and to be continued from ... to day until all the taxes on the delinquent roll, ... with costs, be realized. There is a very long list to go through. Owners would do well to attend, if for no other purpose, to see who buys their property.

...PECTS.—The following were the arrivals ... Bay. Per steamer Senator, 23 boxes eggs, 2 boxes ..., 9 cases and 37 gunnies bacon, 4 bales woolen ..., 80 bbls dried apples, 3 cases lard. Per Hensel, ... bags wheat, 20 qr sks flour, 74 sks bran, 50 sks shorts, ... 14 dressed hides. Per Alert, 626 qr sks flour, ... oats, 900 sks feed, 2 coops fowls, 1 box eggs.

SPEAKING AT MILTON.—The candidates on the Union Republican county ticket will speak at the Fulton House next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, instead of 1 o'clock in the afternoon as heretofore advertised. The reason for the change is, that the people, just now, cannot well attend in the day time. It is hoped that there will be a full turn out of the voters, Wednesday evening.

...—There have been, for several days ... lots of strawberries in the market; but they are ... at such enormously exhibitant prices that no lightly ... are able to stand the press. We don't know how ... they ... except from a recollection of last ... We trust that nobody will offer us any—we couldn't ... 'em, at six bits a pound.

CIRCUIT COURT FOR WASHINGTON COUNTY.—Judge Upton ... the term of the Circuit Court for Washington county, Saturday afternoon, and is now at home. There was but ... case of importance on the docket—P. F. Kingston, indicted for larceny, was convicted and sentenced to one year's confinement in the penitentiary.

ABOUT TO RESUME WORK.—We are informed that the furnace at the Oswego Iron Works, which has been idle for some weeks, undergoing repairs, will be fired up again to-day for another year's service. We are glad to note that the California market is beginning to take considerable quantities of our Oregon iron.

JUST THE THING.—The new styles of hats to be found at Daly's are neat, light and airy and everybody who cares for personal appearances is wearing one. They are just the thing for the season.

SHIPPING.—The bark Almatia was towed up yesterday to Astoria by the steamer Ouzel. The Pittsburg went down on her last trip in afternoon. When the Neptune came up the bark Metamorphosa was at Astoria awaiting favorable wind and tide, and the Lauretta was on her way down the river, in tow.

HARD ON THE LONGSHOREMEN.—We learn that in consequence of the ... of ... in this city to ... with the ... of ... ing ... to San Francisco to ... on the ... of ... and ... & Phelps.

STEAMSHIP PLY.—Pilot Bill ... arrived yesterday from ... unknown ... the ... for Wm ... Adams. This makes over 500, as fair a beginning. We hope the ship will be ... and ... with anything to give us a continuance of ... trade.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTH.—The Washington Guard's annual picnic will take place to-day. The boats will leave at 9 o'clock precisely. The ... indications are that, unless the weather be very unfavorable, there will be an unusually large turn out.

TO LEAVE AGAIN.—The Dixie Ice will go to Oakland on the ... Saturday or Sunday, to take on a part cargo of ice, for the San Francisco market, probably 200 or 300 tons. Those ... expect to be taken must ...

GOOD TEMPLE SPRING.—The ... mildness ... since ... is ... the season. Spring has come. The cold, ... rainy days are all gone, and the ... Spring has come. Everything ... will not be ... at least till the next steam.

FROM OREGON CITY.—The steamer Senator came down last evening, from Oregon City, arriving about 9 o'clock, with ... gallons of ... people from ... all along ... to attend the ... meeting.

INDEPENDENT CLUB MEETING.—The First Ward Independent Club held a meeting last night. On motion, ... Beaver was called to the Chair, and Michael McGowan acting Secretary. The Chairman stated the object of the meeting, which was not to support any of the nominees of any party, who was not in favor of advancing the interest of said Club. ... on to ... nominees to be made ... signed their names. On motion the Club adjourned to meet again on Wednesday evening at 8 P. M.

The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here and in the markets of the interior, a restrictly higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of it consumers the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. ESPECIAL ATTENTION PAID TO THE COMpounding of Physicians' Prescriptions, by a th

Anecdotes of General Grant.

"A Woman" writes to the Philadelphia Press, from Ashland, Pa., the following stories about General Grant:

During the first three years of the war I was actively identified with the Western branch of the Sanitary Commission, and had abundant opportunity of judging for myself in regard to the character and ability of many of our Generals. During the entire campaign of the opening of the Mississippi it was my privilege to aid in caring for the noble patriots, both in hospitals and in camps, and I have been for weeks together where I saw General Grant frequently, heard his name constantly and never did I hear intemperance mentioned in connection with it. Facts are stubborn things. I will relate a few of the many that came directly to my knowledge. In the winter of 1862-3, when the army arrived at Memphis, after long, weary marching and trials that sicken the heart to think of, two-thirds of the officers and soldiers were in hospitals. General Grant was lying at the Gayoso House, sick. One morning Mrs. Grant came into the ladies parlor, very much distressed, and said the medical director had just been to see Mr. Grant, and thought he would not be able to go any further if he did not stimulate. Said she: "And I cannot persuade him to do so; he says he will not die, and he will not touch a drop upon any consideration." In less than a week he was on board the advance boat on the way to Vicksburg.

In a few months after, I was on board the headquarters' boat at Milliken's Bend, where quite a lively gathering of officers and ladies had assembled. Cards and music were the order of the evening. General Grant sat in the ladies' cabin, leaning upon a table covered with improvable maps and routes to Vicksburg, wholly absorbed in contemplation of the g[reat] matter before him. He paid no attention whatever to what was going on around, neither did any one dare to interrupt him. For hours he sat thus, until the loved and lamented McPherson stepped up to him with a glass of liquor in his hand, and said: "General, this won't do; you are injuring [your]self; will join with us in a few toasts, and I will [take] this burden off your mind." Looking [up] ... Wing, he replied: "Mac, you know your whisky won't help me to think; give me a d—n N—w York segars you can find, and, [I] think Mr. will excuse me for smoking. I [will] drink by the time I have finished them I [will] have the job pretty nearly planned." Thus he sat; and when the company retired, we left him there, still smoking and thinking, not having touched one drop of liquor.

[I] was ... my around Vicksburg during that long siege, the time that tried men's ... I watched every movement it was possible for me to see, feeling almost certain that Mr. A. [would] eventually succumb to the custom, also [I] did. Social drinking the officers. I was [one] day [with a] gentleman from Chicago, who, while calling upon the General, remarked, "I have some very fine brandy on the boat, and if you will send an orderly with me to the river I will send you a case or two." "I am greatly obliged," replied the General, "but I do not use the article. I have a big job on [hand] and though I know I shall win, I know I must do it with a cool head. Send [the] liquor you intend for me to my hospital in the rear; I don't think it will hurt the [patients] out there."

It was a cold day on the 22d of February, before the surrender of Vicksburg, while all the [officers] were drinking toasts in sparkling champagne, I saw General Grant push aside a glass of wine, and, taking up a glass of Missouri water, with the remark, "This suits me to a hair; drink to the toast, God save us Lincoln and liberty; let us fight for both."

Grant and his Slaves.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, writing from the freedmen's village at Arlington, writes as follows regarding the former slaves of General Robert E. Lee:

Among the smooth, white buildings of the freedmen's village, I turned down a path [which led] to an ancient log cabin. Dogs [lay] in the yard. The logs of the [cabin were] held together with white-[washed] mortar. An old yellow woman, past sixty years of age, sat within, beside a yellow [child], who was studying a speller.

"Are you one of General Lee's servants?"

"Yes, sir, I am. Will you come in, gentlemen?"

[I] found one of those tidy, "family [rooms] to be met with in the exceptional [cases] of slavery, a half-aristocratic old lady, with a tidy dress, a turbaned head, and a clean floor. A cook-stove sat by the little [fire]place, a tidy cupboard, no bigger than a [packing] case, thrown wide open, exhibited the well-[stored] dishes. The room was about seven feet square, and was white-washed [with] lime.

"No, sir," [replied] the old lady, looking through infinite distance at the yellow boy, "the [children] from Texas, some of them plantries. [I] can do it per Dolphus?"

"Aunty, [where] was you when Hot Springs [was] Burned?"

"Dar's [where] we was, honey, and times [was] mighty hard. We [had] to run up at Arlington [and] live with Mas'r Lee."

"Aunty, [was] Mr. Lee a good master?"

"Yes, [as] good a man as I see," said the old [woman], "and used to have pa' fowls cut [up] for [his] company. But, sir, and [all] wash days [and] ironing days [and] cooking days, [I] had to hear of the Lees, I said to the old lady:

"What do you think of Mrs. Lee everybody thinks to be a good [woman]?"

"Don't call no woman good, gentleman," said the old lady, "who cheats po' souls out of their liberty. Mr. Custis left all us people on the place fifty dollars, and set us free. General Lee an his wife kep our money. Day still up there, a-keepin' it away off South, and they keep it de year of my time and my old man's."

Considering that some mistake might have been made by the old lady as to the terms of the will, it nevertheless heard, with surprise, her arraignment of General Lee as a cold-blooded, exacting military master; but this thing was shared in common by all the surviving negroes of the estate, six families in all. General Lee has been three times to Arlington since the war, but has avoided seeing his old servants. The old lady said that she had heard from several of her sons, but that none of them could visit her, by the long distance intervening between them.

The New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger informs us that the Manhattan Club have been carefully surveying the Presidential prospects of the Democratic party, and have concluded to go all lengths for Senator Hendricks, of Indiana, as their candidate. This conclusion is founded on the belief that the National Convention will not be able to agree upon Mr. Pendleton or Mr. Seymour. For General Hancock they expect some complimentary votes to be cast, "but as there are objections to him which the club do not believe can be overcome," he will have to be put aside. Then Mr. Hendricks will be nominated for Presidency, and either Governor English, of Connecticut, or Mayor Hoffman, will get the second place on the ticket.

No less than seven new and different biographies of General Grant are in rapid preparation by authors and printers for the Presidential campaign. The writers of these biographies are as follows: Chas. A. Dana, A. D. Richardson, Henry C. Deming, E. D. Mansfield, John S. C. Abbott, J. T. Headly and P. C. Headley.

One of Buchanan's cabinet, ten years ago, sent an advertisement to a New York paper, with orders for its insertion until the department directed it stopped. The direction was never sent, and the paper has just forwarded a bill of several thousand dollars to the department for collection.

Scholarly folks have long been worrying about the proper orthography of Shakspeare's name. The Philadelphia Public Ledger gives a list of 1906 different ways of spelling it. We haven't the least doubt but that one of the 1906 ways is correct.

A Paris Romance.

One of those little romances of which the French are so very fond, has lately taken place in Paris, and is thus described in a journal:

Robert, an immensely wealthy and highly accomplished elegant, well known not only for his valuable collections of paintings and medioval relics, but for his rare skill as a designer and painter, hearing that one of his tenants, a Mr. B., whom he had never seen, kept one of the most extensive stockers of fancy boxes and ornamental objects in France, called upon him with a view to make his acquaintance.

Entering the counting-room, he found a good natured, eccentric gentleman of middle age, who greeted him, and exclaimed:

"I suppose that you have also seen my advertisement and come to apply for that situation as designer?"

For a joke, Robert replied that he had. B. supplied him with paints and brushes, and requested him to produce a design for the last. Robert soon found that what B. really wanted was an artist that would strictly carry out his own ideas, and that those were pure and formed on an extensive knowledge of art. In a short time he produced a sketch which suited the employer to a dot "a point."

Robert very gravely engaged himself, exacted good wages, and insisted on having several new articles of furniture placed in the room which was assigned to him. But when he was introduced to the work-rooms and found one hundred and fifty girls, many of them young and bountiful, busily employed, and was informed that he would be required to supply them with designs and show the young ladies how they were to be carried out, the young artist began to feel as if he should have to "become [illegible] out himself, being very susceptible.

"Working for a living," said he to himself, "is not entirely devoid of attractions. Let us work."

Robert being an accomplished artist, delighted his employer, and he soon found a remarkable facination in seeing his designs realized in steel, silver, enamel or wood. He took a pleasure hitherto unknown in seeing his works in shop windows and in the boudoire of his friends. This workshop life was, of course, carefully concealed from "society," nor did his employer suspect that his artist was his landlord. But Robert soon found a more intense object of fascination in the daughter of B., a young lady who also took part in the duties of the atelier. This damsel was as remarkable for her accomplishments as for her extraordinary beauty, and Robert soon found that, as regarded taste and culture in all matters which specially interested him, he had never met with any one like her. Step by step the pair fell in love, and little by little the artiest so ingratiated himself with the father that the latter, after due deliberation, consented to their union.

Previous to the marriage the old gentleman one day spoke of a dowry. "I shall give Maria fifty thousand francs," said he, with a little air of boasting. "Eh, mon garçon!"

"And I suppose," added Robert, gravely, "that I too must settle something on my wife. Well, I will."

This caused a peal of laughter, which was redoubled when the artist added:

"And I will settle this piece of poverty, house and all, with the building adjoining, on her."

But what was their amazement when Robert drew forth the title deeds and said:

"You seem to forget that I am your landlord, isn't my name Robert?"

The young lady didn't faint, but papa nearly died of astonishment and joy. There was a magnificent wedding, but the bridegroom has not given up business. He declares that there is as much amusement in being useful as in amusing one's self.

A Criticism on Dickens.

The New York Citizen criticises Mr. Dickens in the following not very complimentary manner:

In what wonderful freaks nature indulges! What could have induced her to bestow such astonishing genius upon Charles Dickens? There are many good fellows and true gentlemen in England, any one of whom would, at least, have done her no discredit; and yet she selects a snob with a vast watch chain, faultless clothes and immense conceit to invest with qualities that almost elevates him above the human [level]. He is a pre-eminent specimen of inestimable little caprice. He writes most beautifully of domestic life and family affection, and [portrays] them admirably with his wife. He [is] ... on the subject of mutual charity and kindly human sentiment, and then villifies shockingly a whole nation because they abounded favors upon him. He is ... very great and immeasurably small. He has a genius that stands next to Shakspeare's, and a meanness, worthy of Grub ... [that] would be an offensive impertinence ... not for his extraordinary gifts. His ... ability of novelistic invention is exhaustless; his individuality of representation is astounding; and still he, does not seem to comprehend the characters he has produced. His genius compels him to write and eliminate a certain result, but the author fails to understand the creation.

It is simply lamentable to hear Dickens read. His pronunciation is bad enough; his intonation, with the Cockney rising inflection at every impossible point, is dreadful; but his want of appreciation of those conceptions that he has made living incarnations to the rest of the world, is almost painful. His Dora is a pert, disagreeable school-girl; the little darling that we have loved and almost wept over becomes a nasty bread and butter miss, whose only redeeming quality is her stupidity. Sam Weller, the immortal, independent Sam, becomes an humble, cringing flunkey; and old Peggotty, the honest, good, simple-minded soul, is converted into a mere inebriated Jack Brusby. Imagine poor old Peggotty raving about his "lost Emily" in a drunken strain of mingled lamentation and violence; and conceive, if possible, how the man who produces such an effect in reading could have produced such an effort in writing. The audience listens in a state of dazzled bewilderment, wondering whether Dickens ever wrote, or they ever read, what passes under the name of his authorship. They have a sincere sympathy for his inability to comprehend his own work, and feel like correcting him in his delineations, and pointing out the happy points or touching appeals in his books. If there was any one else to dispute his claim of authorship, he would be condemned out of his own mouth.

SOOTHING AND WEAKENING.—There is no preparation in existence which has such a soothing effect in cases of nervous excitement as

DR. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

Although the fame of this renowned invigorant rests mainly on its astonishing cures of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and intestinal disorders, it is equally efficacious in nervous complaints. Thousands of ladies resort to it as a remedy for hysteria, fluttering of the heart, nervous headache, vertigo, general debility and all peculiar disturbances and derangements to which, as a sex, they are subject. It cheers and lightens the depressed mental powers as well as strengthens the body, and its use is never followed by any unpleasant reaction. Sold by all Druggists and dealers everywhere.
